Robinson+Cole Welcomes Chief Operating Officer

Michael R. Orce to lead firm's administrative team

HARTFORD, CT (September 21, 2018) – Robinson+Cole is pleased to welcome Michael R. Orce as the firm's Chief Operating Officer. Orce will be responsible for the overall finances and operations of the firm while providing leadership to the management team. With nearly 30 years of management experience in the legal industry, Orce will work with firm leadership to execute its strategic and operational goals. His forward-thinking and innovative approach, together with his experience in senior management positions with firms that are culturally similar to Robinson+Cole, led him to be a natural choice for the firm.

"I'm very excited to have Michael join us in this critically important strategic position," said Stephen E. Goldman, managing partner of Robinson+Cole. "His addition to the Robinson+Cole management team will greatly enhance our ability to serve our clients and grow our firm."

Prior to joining Robinson+Cole, Orce served as the Executive Director of Murtha Cullina LLP where he led the administration and operation of the firm. Preceding that position, Orce worked for 20 years, in various capacities, including Global Director of Operations, for Edwards Wildman Palmer LLP (since merged with Locke Lord.)

"I am both privileged and excited to further my career at Robinson+Cole given its rich history, position in the marketplace, and sophisticated practices," said Orce. "It provides an opportunity for me to promote the highest level of service to our clients while staying competitive in the ever-changing legal market."
